

"To Whom Will You Compare Me Now?"

Text: Isaiah 40:21-31

By Rev. John C. Stennfeld

Tune Meter: CM

Suggested Tune: Ich Singe Dir

"To whom will you compare me now?"
Thus says the Holy One;
He sits enthroned in heav'n above
From dawn to setting sun.

He stretches out the heavens like
A wondrous canopy,
And put the starry host in place
For all the world to see.

Do you not know? Have you not heard
About the Lord our God?
The heav'ns above were made by Him,
Then, too, the earthen sod.

He will not e'er grow weary, and
His mind no one can know;
He gives strength to the tired and weak,
And helps their power grow.

Though even youths can weary grow,
And young men take a fall,
The ones who wait upon the Lord,
With strength will stand through all.

On wings like eagles they will soar,
They'll run but not grow weak,
For all who hope in Christ our Lord
Will find the strength they seek.
