

When Jesus Comes Back to This Earth

Christ the King Sunday
By Rev. John C. Stennfeld

Text: Matthew 25:31-46
Tune Meter: CM
Suggested Tune: Evan

When Jesus comes back to this earth
And all his angels too,
With trumpet blast he'll raise the dead,
Including me and you.

He'll put the sheep on his right side
And say then, to them, "Come,
For you're the ones my Father blessed,
For whom we've made a home.

When I was hungry, lost, alone -
Regardless of my need;
You always were right there to help -
My mouth, and soul, to feed."

But to all those on his left side
Our Savior then will say,
"Into the lake of burning fire
Depart from me this day.

For when, my brothers, you ignored -
Their hurts you would not see;
Whate'er you did not do for them
You did not do for me."

But of that day, I have no fear,
For Jesus gave his life -
To wash all of my sin away,
To free me from all strife.

So may we Lord, on that great day,
When first we wake from sleep
Be welcomed into heav'n above,
As your own blessed sheep.

And may we hear our Savior's voice
As we wake from our rest,
Say then those words we've longed to hear,
"Come now you who are blessed."
