

Who Will Cause Harm to You

By Rev. John C. Stennfeld

Text: I Peter 3:13-22

Tune Meter: SM

Suggested Tune: Energy

Who will cause harm to you,
If you do what is right,
But even if you do suffer
You'll be blessed in God's sight.

Do not fear what they fear,
Set Christ, as Lord, apart,
And be prepared to answer for
The hope within your heart.

Our Lord's name boldly speak,
To folks both far and near,
But do this with all gentleness
To keep your conscience clear.

Better, it is, always,
According to God's will,
To suffer pain for doing good
Than suffer for evil.

Christ Jesus died for us,
For our sins, once for all,
The righteous for the unrighteous,
To save both great and small.

To heaven Christ has gone,
And has prepared a place
That in the end we'll all receive
Through his baptismal grace.

So Lord, we praise your name,
And to, our hope, hold fast,
That one day soon you will return
And take us home at last.
