

Who is the One Who Darkens the Counsel of the Lord Text: Job 38-42

By Rev. John C. Stennfeld

Tune Meter: 76 76 D

Suggested Tune: Munich

Who is the one who darkens
The counsel of the Lord,
And too, obscures His wisdom
With just a spoken word?
Too often when we speak of
The things we do not know,
We also fail to realize
That God still loves us so.

When first God had created
By saying: "Let there be,"
Were we there in the picture
To judge the land and sea?
When morning stars first gave song,
Were we then there to hear?
And do we know the birthing
Of mountain goats, and deer?

How can we sit in judgement
On God, the King of all,
The One who has created
All creatures great and small?
How can we ever fathom
His wonder and His grace,

When we, this side of heaven,
Have yet to see His face?

Dear Lord, we ask forgiveness
For judging all your ways,
And doubting all your goodness
Throughout our earthly days.
Help us to know your greatness,
And also trust your love,
Until that day when we're home
In heaven up above.
